Trinity Wesleyan Guild Honors Mrs. David L. Martin

Mrs. David L. Martin, of Trinity Church, Appomattox Circuit, has been made a Life Member in the Wesleyan Service Guild. The presentation of a pin and certificate was made at a district meeting in September at Parkview Methodist Church in Lynchburg, by the guild president, Mrs. Clifton Drinkard, who also made the following introductory remarks.

It has been our privilege for some years to have among us one whose considerable abilities have been used in the church and the guild.

She is a most gifted person, loved by all who have known in the church and the guild.

Her Christian character, as we see it in the life she lives before us, is an inspiration to her family, her friends and to all who come in contact with her.

Every call for participation in the programs and activities of the church is well known to us, and we can recall innumerable occasions when her talents have been employed to the benefit of our guild.

She was present when the Trinity Guild was organized in June 1951, and at that time, she was elected vice president. In 1953, she was made president. In 1955 vice president again. In 1957 recording secretary, and since 1959 she has held the office of treasurer.

Her Christian character, as we see it in the life she lives before us, is an inspiration to her family, her friends and to all who come in contact with her.

Tragic End To Crash At Prospect Saturday

Robert Ernest Goodman, 23, Route 3, Lynchburg, was killed in this overturned vehicle smashed as it failed to make a curve and struck a utility pole about 4 a.m., Saturday on Route 460 in the village of Prospect. Charles S. Goodman, 59, was listed by police as the driver. Curtis Goodman, brother of the fatally injured youth, was admitted to University Hospital, Charlottesville, in critical condition after preliminary examination at Southside Community Hospital. The other passengers, Wayne Goodman, 18, Richard Goodman, 14, and Tex Louis Moore, 17, were discharged from Southside Hospital later in the day after treatment there.

Vegetables, Fruits Plentiful In Market At Reasonable Prices

A large number of decreases in average retail prices of fresh vegetables showed up last week. This is reflected abundant supplies from home gardens as well as supplies from commercial areas in other sections, according to Virginia B. Duesberry of the Virginia Department of Agriculture.

The largest drop was 6 cents in the cost of celery. Items down 4 cents include pole beans, okra, snap beans and blackeyed peas.

New crop sweet potatoes from southern costal areas are arriving in more stores as movement becomes active. The average price is moving down slightly, but is still on the high side which is usual for the first of the season. However, they could very well remain high since the USDA reports the national crop as being the smallest since 1881.

Beets, lettuce, green peppers, radishes and cucumbers are all down a penny or so and they're all good buys at most produce counters.

Three vegetables that do not thrive in hot, rainy weather are cauliflower, broccoli and spinach. Shoppers will find them scarce and high priced.

Fresh fruit desserts and fruit bowl centerpieces can be good buys now. Harvests of plums and nectarines from California, and peaches from there and other areas, are in full swing.

Archery Season Opens Today

Hunters today will slip silently into the woods and unless one of them falls into a creek or out of a tree no one will hear much from them. It is the opening of the four-week special archery season and silence is the chief characteristic of the hunt.

The archery season for deer, bear and squirrel began at sunrise today and extends through November 14. During this period archers may kill deer a day, two per license year in counties with two-deer limits. They may be limited to one deer per day, one per license year in counties with a one deer limit.

Vegetables And Fruits In Plentiful Supply

Supplies of fresh vegetables continue plentiful, but not as heavy as usual for this season of the year. The weather is too dry in some producing areas and too wet in others which is affecting growth and maturity of many items, according to Virginia Duesberry, of the Virginia Department of Agriculture.

Most changes in average prices last week were around a cent per unit of sale. Those going up included snap beans, cabbage, celery, cucumbers, summer squash, and cartoned tomatoes. Decreases were on sweet potatoes, pole beans, green peas, and blackeye peas.

Fruits are in heavy supply and prices are lower in favor of consumers. Red grapes, honeydew melons, and watermelons came down five cents; nectarines, three cents, and Bartlett pears and cantaloupes, two cents.

Apple harvest is gaining gradually and the first Red Delicious and Gravensteine varieties are starting to appear. Seekie pears are also showing up for the fall season.

Top quality eggs are in active demand and both medium and large sizes have shown increases for the past three weeks. They're also higher than they were this period a year ago.

For extra economy and extra nutrition, include broiler-fryers in your menu plans. There are plenty of these top quality birds in your favorite foodstore. Prices are holding to the bargain level shoppers have enjoyed for so long.

Try this for fun and your own amusement. Separate the non-foods from your market basket and get a separate tape for them when you check out. You'll be surprised how the amount for foods seems to drop.

DID YOU KNOW that your water supply should be at least 100 feet from any cemetery, barnyard, pit privy, septic tank drainfield or other source of contamination? Your Health Department sanitarian will be happy to help you and your well driller locate
